

MEET A HOME TUTOR:

Kay from Oxfordshire

Kay lives with her husband Guy in a picturesque village on the outskirts of Oxford. She is an experienced teacher with a CELTA qualification and has been tutoring students for many years in her home. Kay has an accountancy background.

Kay's home

Kay lives in a large detached house situated in the middle of an attractive Cotswold village. The house backs onto a nature reserve and has been beautifully decorated throughout by her husband Guy. In the local area there are tennis courts, a golf course, a traditional village pub and a community shop where students have volunteered in the past. Kay lives 20 minutes away from Oxford.

Kay's interests and hobbies

Kay and Guy both enjoy travelling and have visited countries all over the world. At home, Kay is a keen gardener and makes her own jam. Guy is learning the guitar and is a DIY enthusiast. In the summer they enjoy cycling, punting and barbecues in their garden. They also have a friendly cat called Yoda.

Kay and Guy offer an extremely warm welcome to their students and their home is the perfect place to immerse yourself in English language and culture. Students will also involve themselves in the weekly excursions with our summer centre at St Hilda's College, Oxford.
